School reopened on September 4, 1973 ending the epidemic of vacations, summer jobs, loafing, daytime television, and for the less fortunate or more ambitious — summer school. All this gave way to school sports, homework, and chilly weather. Students began to get involved in the school organizations and forget the summer sun. The Manor Mustangs began to live the story of 1973-74. Students began to establish traditions of their own. Some traditions were borrowed from other schools, but most traditions were purely Mustang. Read on as 'The 1974 Mustang' staff tells the story of YESTERDAY, ONCE MORE.

DAY BY DAY

DAY BY DAY traditions are born. Mustangs made each day count as they set traditions for the future. One of the first traditions came when the second Manor Bowl was held. Others that followed were the Student-Faculty Basketball Game, the Faculty Show, Christmas baskets for the needy, and Spirit Day.

Nostalgia crept into the lives of the Mustangs. Prompted by current movies such as "American Graffitti," "The Way We Were," "The Great Gatsby," and "The Sting," the Sociology classes presented "Nostalgia Day", and the theme of the traditional faculty show was "Let's Go to the Hop."

Mustangs were personally affected by national news such as the gas shortage. Ten-speeds became more and more popular as gas lines became longer and longer. The national fad, streaking, never quite reached Manor in the flesh, but talk of streaking was a great lift to Mustangs after reading newspapers packed with nothing but the energy crisis and Watergate.

Manor Bowl Assembly Sets the Mood for the Events of the Evening

On the morning of Friday, November 2, the Field House filled with excited Mustangs. The talk was of pretty legs, Mr. and Miss Manor, a surprise for Coach Joseph Bisese, and whomping Armstrong later that night.

Varsity cheerleaders sponsored a vote for the "Best Legs" featuring contestants chosen from the football team. For two pennies a vote, members of the student body elected Victor Harris. As an added attraction, Coach Bisese was placed atop a ladder located centrally in the gym for all to see. As the applause grew louder, Cheryl Gray started on the first step carrying a chocolate creme pie and climbed higher. Needless to say, when she reached the top, applause skyrocketed and Coach Bisese had his dessert for the day!

Fails to Defeat Mustang Spirit

Churchland Stadium was the setting. November 2, 1973, was the date. The Wildcats of Armstrong High School in Richmond were the opponents. Six to six was the score, but neither Mustangs, Wildcats, nor Mustang spirit suffered the agony of defeat.

Following a unique tradition, Manor elected Seniors as Mr. and Miss Manor. The two Seniors elected were Mark Kahler and Anita Dailey. Attendants to Miss Manor represented each class.

Homerooms created their own baskets and contributed cans and boxes of food which were picked up by the Portsmouth Department of Social Services and distributed among needy families in the city. The money collected by the candidates for "Miss Christmas Seal" was given to the Tuberculosis Foundation.

Homeroom 125 was awarded "Most Creative" for its basket.

Long lines, "No Gas" signs, and various other signs about the gas shortage were seen in Tidewater. The United States and several other nations faced a gas shortage. It affected Tidewater quite hard.

Automobiles covering several blocks formed long lines trying to get to the gas stations. Upon reaching the gas pump, one had to show that his gas gauge read half a tank empty in order that he might purchase gas. Several people who were unable to get gas had to walk to get anywhere. Some people rode bicycles in order to get around.

President Nixon made nationwide television appearances urging Americans to conserve energy. Gas rationing based on "odd-even" license plates was put into effect in Virginia. Thermostats were turned down and also the speed limits were lowered in order to conserve gas. Weekend trips were called off. Americans stayed home and entertained themselves by various ways in the community so that the fuel might be conserved.

by Various Community Groups

Manor students had made themselves known to the community. They participated on the Scholastic Teams, artistic showings, and in Virginia's General Assembly meeting. A female senior, Judy Griswold, served as a page during the General Assembly meeting held in Richmond. Manor's Choral Department performed in various places in Tidewater. They sang in the Planetarium for several nights during the Christmas shows giving a special effect to the showing of the Star of Bethlehem. They also gave a Christmas Concert in the Little Theater to which the community was invited. Manor's band students were also busy. They held several fund raising activities in order that band uniforms could be purchased. Through the School Board's helpful hand of lending the money, the band uniforms were bought.

Because of Manor's class curriculum of modular scheduling, Japanese educators came to observe and tour Manor. They only visited schools with different methods of teaching the student body. Portsmouth had two.

The Japanese were not the only people who came to Manor. Elementary school students made field trips to the Planetarium in Manor. The Little Theater, located inside Manor, was used by the public. Plays and concerts were performed in the Little Theater. Even political figures came to Manor to make campaign speeches. Not only political figures were invited but also every day workingmen of various occupations came to Manor. Manor was also used as a voting station during elections.

Competition Gets Rough in the Student-Faculty Game

Two student-faculty basketball games were sponsored by the junior class. Several faculty members and students formed their teams and practiced many hours for the big event. In the first game, the women teachers had an outstanding victory of 60-40. In the rematch, the girls' student team gained their revenge with a victory of 38-35. The action rose to its peak with the men's game. In the first game, the boys' student team just made their mark with a score of 73-72. The boys retained their status during the rematch with a 74-72 score.

Teachers Relive the 50's

A Faculty Talent show was presented on April 3. The money from the show sponsored a trip to Washington, D.C. The features included group scenes of life in the 50's such as a day in the life of Daddy Cool as portrayed by Mr. Leroy Williams. At the hop, the teachers rocked and rolled, twisted, and slow danced to the music of "The Splatters." "Teen Angel" and "Rock Around the Clock" were among the song hits played.

Politics, Spirit, Meetings . . .

Meetings of the Student Government Association were held during homeroom every Monday and Thursday, giving the officers a chance to discuss school problems. Homeroom Representatives met once a week to be informed of the latest happenings. Dr. Cherry met with them twice, once to discuss the Homecoming dance, and again to speak about the need for assemblies and school spirit. A spring dance was planned but had to be called off the day before it was supposed to take place because only four tickets had been sold. The S.G.A. raised about $100 from fund raising and dances during the year. The money was used to off-set expenses the S.G.A. incurred and to pay for the charitable donations made during the year. The S.G.A.'s activities culminated with the election of new officers.

38 Inducted Into National Honor Society

The 1974 induction ceremony of the Manor High Chapter of the National Honor Society was held in the Little Theater on Monday, May 20 at 8:30 in the morning. Guests included Dr. Cherry, several administrators and counselors, and the parents of the inductees. Thirty-eight students were inducted, including six sophomores.

Honor Society president David Thereault presided over the ceremony which included a special presentation by members Kim Sandie and David Edwards, the singing of our Alma Mater and a "Hymn for Our Times" by the Manor Singers, swearing in of the inductees, and a short concluding talk from Dr. Cherry. Student Body Experiences First Spirit Day

A spirited march is performed by the concert band under the direction of Mrs. Wanda Gibble.

March 7 was declared Spirit Day, a new experience for the student body. A mass of red, white, and black colors appeared in the clothing worn by the students and faculty. Members of the concert band wore their new uniforms, having worked very hard to pay for them. Since there had been no assemblies in many months, this assembly added to the spirit of the day. The program was performed by the band under the direction of Mrs. Wanda Gibble and Mr. Emery Fears. The program consisted of their District Festival music, a tribute to Bacharach and David, songs from "Jesus Christ Superstar," and the Alma Mater. Seeing the band uniforms for the first time at the assembly helped to keep spirit prevailing on Spirit Day!

Spring Concerts Are Successful

Traditions were broken when the orchestra gave its spring concert on May 16. Instead of classical music, there were only popular tunes. In collaboration with the orchestra were two school groups: Yesterday's Children and the Creations. Jato Vondel, a nationally famous group, was the main attraction. "You Make Me Feel Brand New," "We'll Join Together," "TSOP" and "Side Show" were just a few of the songs performed. This new type of orchestral concert, under the direction of Mr. Willis L. Barnett, Jr., was very successful.

The choral concert, under the direction of Mrs. Harriet Heath, appealed to all generations. There were classics such as "Regina Coeli," religious music, and of course, popular tunes such as "We've Only Just Begun." The performing groups were the Girls' and Men's Glee clubs, the Girls' Ensemble, the Mixed Chorus, and the Manor Singers.

Nulli Secundus, second to none, was their motto on May 23. The band played everything from classics and marches to contemporary music in their spring concert. Mrs. Wanda Gibble was the assistant conductor to the conductor, Mr. Emery L. Fears, Jr. Dr. Cherry presented musician awards to the players during the concert.

Under the direction of Mrs. Harriet Heath, the Choral Department sponsored a Variety Show. Anyone was allowed to enter into any field of talent. There were teachers as well as students who entered the show with a variety of talents. The activity was held in the field house, and the money which the chorus earned was for the Mixed Chorus' trip to Disney World, where they performed on June 14, 1974.

Students Seek Revenge at Sponge Throw

In order to purchase equipment for various teams, the girls' athletic teams sponsored a sponge throw. Tickets for the sponge throw were purchased from any member of the girls' track and softball teams. Many students purchased tickets in order that they might get revenge on their teachers by throwing a wet sponge. Teachers reacted enthusiastically by showing their good sportsmanship. Besides the wet sponges, there were also a few buckets of water tossed around by impulsive teachers and students.

Entertainment Division of Disney World Invites Mustangs to Perform

After months of money-raising projects, planning, and practice, 9 a.m. on June 12, 1974, was an exciting moment for 35 selected members of the mixed chorus and girls' ensemble. The Entertainment Division of Disney World invited the students to submit an application to perform on the Fantasy Faire Stage. A tape was made by the singers and was sent with the application. The Division accepted the tape, and soon the singers were on the way to Florida.

The group spent the first night in Savannah, Georgia. The first real sightseeing took place at Cypress Gardens on June 13. That day ended in Orlando, Florida. The entire day of June 14 was spent performing patriotic, folk, and spiritual songs on the Fantasy Faire stage in Disney World. On June 15, the group toured Marineland and was on their way home.

Scholarships Help Seniors Attend College

There are 33 Honor Graduates.

With more than half of the class going into some form of higher learning, the Senior Class consisted of 368 members with 33 Honor Graduates and 325 actual graduates. Irene Schauer was the valedictorian and David Edwards was the salutatorian. Many of the seniors received awards and scholarships from different colleges and clubs. These will enable them to attend college. The class plans to meet again in ten years for a reunion.

15 Schools Merge for Summer Graduation

At 7:30 on the evening of August 10, 1973, the Field House buzzed with excitement, nostalgia, and a sense of accomplishment. That was the night the summer graduates of 1973 received their diplomas.

Fifteen high schools from the cities of Victoria, Waynesboro, Suffolk, Smithfield, and Portsmouth, Virginia and Minerva, Ohio merged summer school graduates for a total of 254.

Guest speakers were Mr. George N. Powers, Jr. of the Portsmouth School Board and Reverend Joseph R. Holland of Calvary Baptist Church. Presiding over the ceremony was Miss Alicia Ames from Woodrow Wilson High School.

Finally the L-O-N-G-awaited moment came when Mr. John L. McGriff, Jr., assistant principal of Manor, handed out those L-O-N-G-awaited diplomas!

Senior Reception Is Fun for All

The Field House was packed on June 6 with parents and graduates who were attending their first graduation event. Jo Ann Pulley, Senior Class President, presided over the program. Anita Dailey presented a dedication in honor of the parents of the graduates, and Kathy Williams gave a speech looking into the past and the present of the members of the Senior Class. To close the program, the Senior Class gathered around the piano to sing the class song, written and composed by Terence Sykes. After the program, a reception was held in the cafeteria for all those present with the tables and the refreshments decorated in red and white, the colors of the class.

This assembly was the first time the Senior Class had adorned caps and gowns and marched in before the school body. The assembly was highlighted by speeches given by various members of the class. There were many skits, giving the audience a chance to laugh and enjoy themselves. The Senior Superlatives were recognized for the first time. A serious moment came when Jo Ann Pulley presented Mr. Leroy Williams a plaque for being the class sponsor. The climax of the assembly came when Calvin Fields rose to give the Farewell Address. The assembly went well with no big mistakes from anyone.

Second Jr.-Sr. Prom Is Again Held on Commons

Pieces of light from the multifaceted mirror ball glittered the square as The Positive Sounds made their music. On May 25, 1974, girls in their carefully chosen gowns and guys in those "bothersome" tuxedos became a part of the second Junior-Senior Prom in Mustang history. Making last year's idea tradition, the prom took place in the Commons area. "Love Story" was chosen as the theme by a vote in all junior homerooms. In order to finance the prom, the Junior Class sponsored the Student-Faculty basketball game and a skating party and sold oil lamps. The money was put to good use on catering services and decorations depicting the theme.

Excitement and Tension Rise

Practice is necessary for graduation to be a success.

When graduation night, June 11, arrived, the Field House was jammed with waiting parents, friends, and relatives. The seniors, only hours from graduation, marched in to the fanfare of music of the band, with eyes already wet with tears. The guest minister was Reverend M.O. Eckel, Jr. Irene Schauer, valedictorian, was Mistress of Ceremonies. Traci Hewitt and Robert Whitehead spoke on the "Social and Political Responsibilities of the Senior Class." The Farewell Address was presented by Kim Sandie. Mr. James Glisson announced the names of the graduates as Dr. T. M. Cherry, principal, presented the diplomas. Mr. J. L. GAMES PEOPLE PLAY

GAMES PEOPLE PLAY took up plenty of Mustangs' spare time. From early August, when the football team began practicing, through cross country, basketball, wrestling, tennis, golf, track, and softball, to the last baseball game in May, countless hours were spent at practice and during the actual games.

Here are a few facts about our teams:

1. Most of the teams were young and inexperienced.
2. Mustangs enjoyed the talents of a girl, Susan Hall, on the golf team for the first time.
3. The cross country team was the only Mustang team which remained undefeated throughout the season. The team brought back the second place trophy from district competition.
4. Our girls' track team placed second in the district meet.

Pep rallies, Spirit Day, and fine teams kept the dedicated Mustang fans coming in great turn-outs for all the events.

for the Season

Manor's triple scoring threat; Tri-captains Charles Harris, Mike Lilley, and Leslie Thorne.

Looking at last year's record of 7-3 and comparing it with this season's record of 5-4-2, one must remember that teams have to rebuild from season to season due to graduating seniors. This was a season for Manor to rebuild.

Starting off the season by demolishing Churchland, the Mustangs lost a hard-fought battle to Wilson. As the season progressed, the team lost three of its next four games. However, towards the end of the season, Manor fought back, winning three of its last four games and tying the other.

Baby Mustangs Gain

Elston Riddick hands off to Roney Spruill for a short gain.

Going through a rough season, the J.V. football team had trouble putting it all together. Though the baby Mustangs won only two games, they did get the experience needed for future seasons.

The baby Mustangs got off to a bad start when they lost to Cox High School. In the next game, the Mustangs put together two scoring drives, but they were not enough to defeat Deep Creek High School. They lost the following game to Western Branch High School. In a hard fought battle, the Mustangs lost by only one point to Maury High School. The record was 0-4 at the end of that game, but the Mustangs went on to win two out of the three remaining games, giving them a 2-5 record.

Gaining experience was the key to the first girls' basketball team at Manor. The only two on the team with any experience were the co-captains, Kathy Eddleman and Jewel Jones. However, sophomores Vanessa Norris, Helen Samuel, and 6' freshman Loretta Goodman were soon to gain the needed experience.

The competition was tough as Manor won its first game against Norcom. The rest of the games also gave the team a good workout, leaving Manor with a record of 4-6.

The team had its hands full since girls' basketball was a new thing in Portsmouth. However, they managed to take third place in the standings.

Cross Country Team Goes Undefeated for Second Straight Year

Running hard and well, the Cross Country team defeated all of its opponents, making the team undefeated for two straight seasons. In the Southeastern District Championship, the Mustangs finished second, losing only by two points to Deep Creek. Being second in the district, the team brought home its second trophy in two seasons.

The six returning runners gave the team valuable experience. The outstanding individuals were Ray Lee, Garland Knight, and Mark Hudgins. Ray Lee, who was second in the district individual championship last year, won the individual championship this year.

Lack of Height and Experience

Curtis Smith is open as he attempts a layup.

Opening its 1973-74 season, the varsity basketball team began with only two players with previous varsity experience. They were Michael Moore and Dexter Cherry who lettered last year. The lack of height and their inexperience followed the Mustangs throughout the season. The loss of Dexter Cherry and Kenny Garrett at mid-season also slowed the progress of the Mustangs. However, with the escalation of some fine J.V. players, the Mustangs managed to win enough games to get into the District Tournament.

Coach Black said, "The outlook for the 1974-75 season is much brighter. Look for the Mustangs to finish strong and in high standing next season."

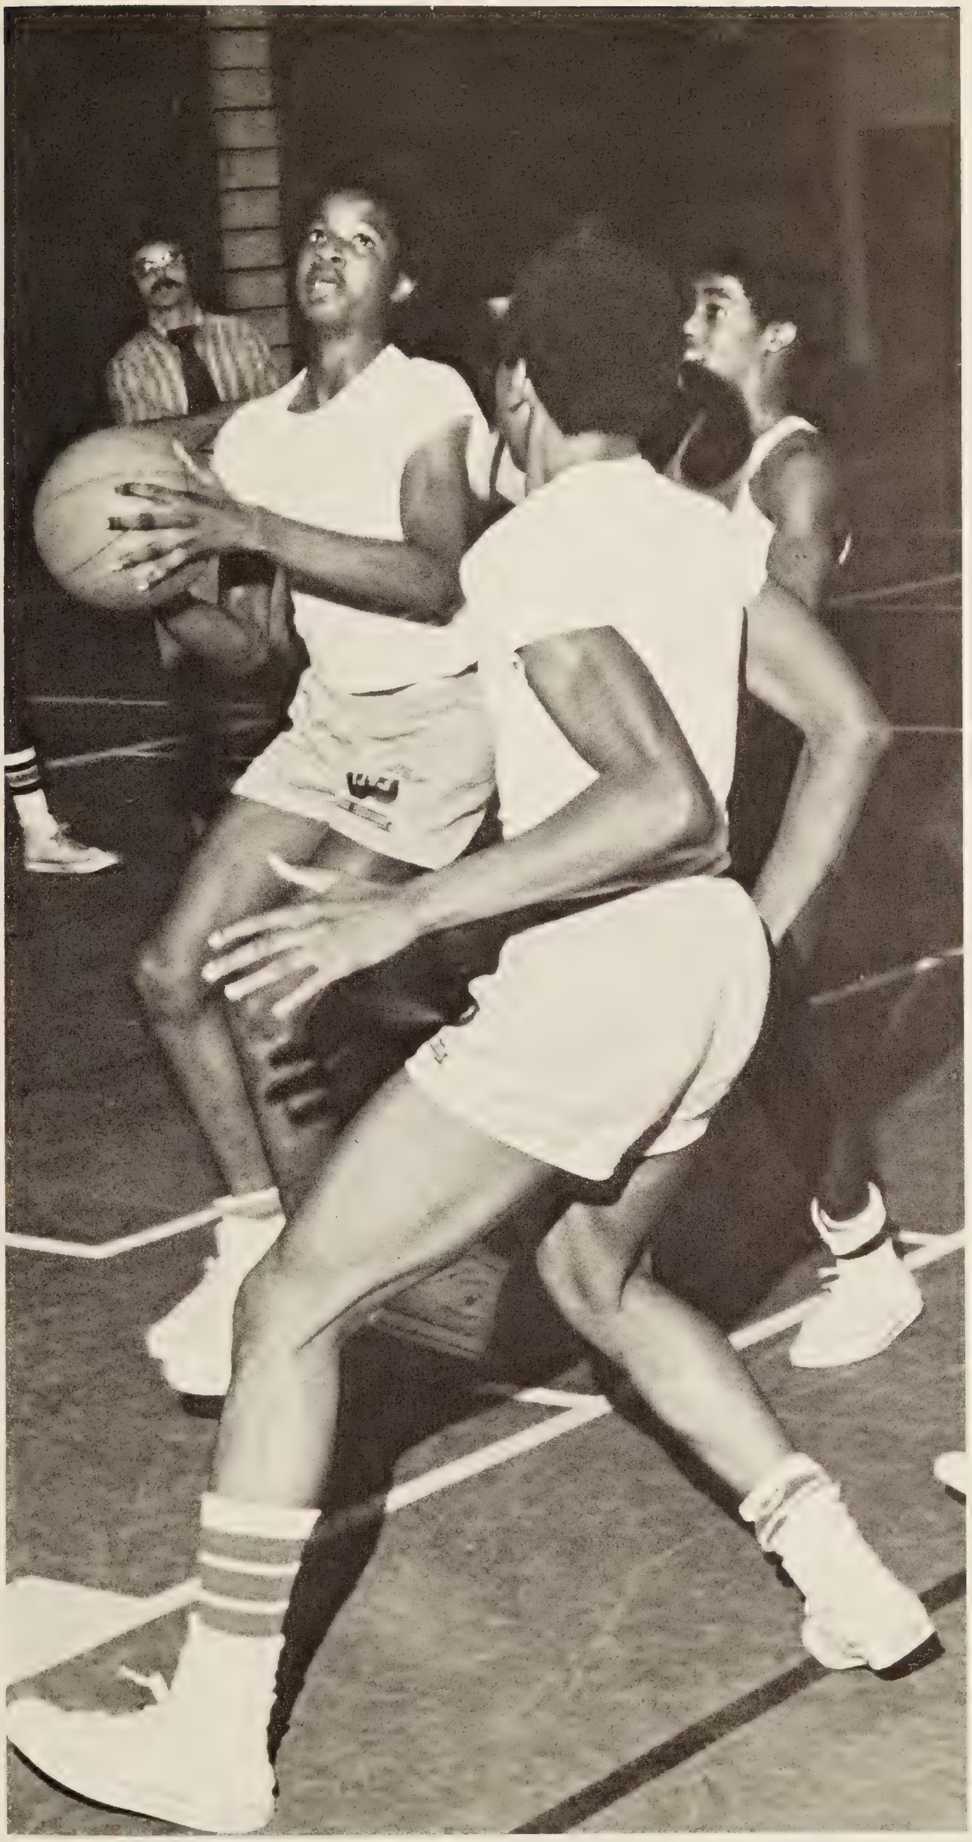
Winning Season



Wayne Jones, Wayne Johnson, and David Boone scrimmage at a practice session.

The J.V. basketball team's record was 11-6. Starting out this year were two returning players, James Clifton and James Satterfield. With these two players and 10 new ones, the team began the season with hope and prayer.

In the first few games, lack of experience hurt the team, as they lost the first four games. Then they started to get things together and won five games consecutively, after which followed another winning streak of five games, before they lost the last game of the season. Overall, Coach Joseph Bisese was very pleased with the progress of his players and looks for better things to come in the future.

After losing only one wrestler from last year, the wrestling team continued to improve and had a 7-5 season. Returning from last year were Garland Bennett, Victor Bright, Danny Mundon, Buddy Sharpe, Luke Farrell, and David Hughes. New wrestlers were Mike Bennett, Mario Anderson, Terry Peele, Mac Brown, Steve Goode, and Alan Harrell making this a very young team. Still they managed to take fifth in the Southeastern District Tournament. Garland Bennett and Buddy Sharpe placed first in the district, Danny Mundon placed third, Luke Farrell took fourth, and Steve Goode and Terry Peele took fifth. Steve Goode went on to the State Tournament. Manor's team will, again this year, lose only one wrestler, David Hughes. Another loss will be Coach Earl Sweet who is gaining the position of head football coach at Cradock. Even so, the wrestling team will be ready again next year.

For the second year in a row, the J.V. wrestling team lost only one match. This loss was against Deep Creek. Coach Bright says that he has some J.V. wrestlers that will be filling varsity positions next year. He is counting mainly on Sterling Hicks, Brian Stuck, and Terry Austin. These three wrestlers lost only one match apiece. Coach Bright hopes to remove that one loss next year and go undefeated.

Summary

After having only two returning starters, Coach Morrison slowly worked the team to its three-six regular season record. Inexperience caused most of the team's problems as well as unfilled positions but after everything was ironed out, the team moved right along. Losing a lot of their games by only one or two runs hurt them. Manor had two ace pitchers, John Gibbs and Jim Satterfield, along with a young but promising Brian Gifford. This year, they lost only four players so next year should be promising.

Summary

The J.V. team fared well, considering the fact that most of last year's players were moved to the varsity squad. Although the team had a new coach, Mr. Jimmie Williford, working with a young and inexperienced team, they managed a promising 3-8 season with one of their best wins being a victory over Norcom, 26-12. They are looking forward to next year.

Israel King Goes

The outlook for tennis was a bright one. With just two seniors and three experienced players, the tennis team managed to compile a 4-5 record. They finished fifth in the district tournament, earning a total of fourteen points. Israel King, the number one single's player, won the district tournament in singles and finished the season with a 12-0 record. The number one doubles team, consisting of Israel King and freshman Charles O'Neal, also won the district championship at their respective positions.

Being the first season for girls' varsity softball in Portsmouth, there were only four schools in the league. It was necessary to play each school three times. Two of the teams had played recreational softball for several seasons so the competition was tough. The season consisted of eight games, and Manor came out with a record of 2 and 6. Every game showed a great deal of improvement. By the end of the season, the 15 girls had developed into a working team.

District and Regional Forensics meets are discussed by Isreal King, Robert Whitehead, Sharon Rawles, Mrs. Claudia Hawks, Kim Sandie, and Amy Jennings.

Scholastic team members sponsored by the Ledger Star were picked by their guidance counselors for outstanding scholastic achievement. There were two teams, one for each semester. Besides having an outstanding scholastic average, members must also have been participants in extracurricular activities. One senior, Irene Schauer, was picked from Manor to be on the Tidewater Scholastic Achievement Team.

Under the direction of Mrs. Claudia Hawks, Forensics Club members were involved in many areas of speech and recitations: original oratories, extemporaneous speaking, prose reading, and poetry reading. A contest was held in January. The winners competed in district and regional meets. In March, the club took a field trip to the Virginia Museum Theatre. Another trip to Washington D.C. was in April. An awards presentation in June ended their year.

The Chess Club had a successful year under the guidance of Mr. John Thomas. The club beat Cradock High twice and Wilson High once. Kempsville beat them by only one point. They were also defeated by Indian River High. All present Chess Club members are planning to return next year.

The debate team's first year suffered from inexperience. Brenda Stevenson, valedictorian of Manor's first graduating class, talked to the team about taking notes. Their sponsor, Mr. James Roberts, attended a work shop at Warwick High School for debate team sponsors. There, he listened to debates given by top high school teams. Churchland's debate team attended a Christmas party given by Manor's team. The debate team gave a demonstration debate to Hodges Manor Elementary's Able and Ambitious sixth grade class. The topic was "Why Should Portsmouth Have More Recreational Facilities?"

Lack School Spirit

It was time consuming, but the girls agreed that it was worth it. After spring try-outs based on stunts, form, and spirit, twelve excited girls became the new varsity cheerleaders. Practices began in the summer, three nights a week for two hours each.

The cheerleaders cheered at football and basketball games, cross country meets, and wrestling matches. The girls used their own money to buy their uniforms, including three new ones. The squad attended a cheering clinic at Lake Taylor High School. Ms. Nancy Hearn guided them in their active year.

J.V. Cheerleaders

The Junior Varsity cheerleading squad, sponsored by Mrs. Dorothy O'Brien, consisted of seven sophomores and five freshmen. Together, these girls united in spreading school spirit throughout the school. New cheers, splits, cartwheels, and dreams of doing Russian jumps were a part of everyday practice.

Selling chocolate candy bars, programs, and pom poms were among the many fund raising projects. One of their big contributions was their float at the homecoming game, which won first prize. The J.V. cheerleaders were around to cheer their teams to victory and were also on hand encouraging support for the varsity teams. They have played an important part in developing the school's spirit.

MIND GAMES

MIND GAMES, busywork, tests, and homework—combine them and then split them up again into lectures, quests, and seminars and you will have one full cycle at Manor. In order to get a credit for a class, eleven mods were required per cycle.

The division of mods varied among humanities, math, industrial arts, physical education, and business courses. For instance, an English class may have been divided into three 2-mod seminars, two 2-mod quests, and a 1-mod lecture per cycle. On the other hand, the chemistry classes were divided into two 2-mod seminars, two 2-mod quests, and a 3-mod lecture. Likewise, each subject was divided accordingly to most benefit students and teachers.

The crises of schedule conflict was a problem of many students during the first two weeks of school. Most conflicts were solved with a schedule change or a compromise between teachers and students.

Speaking, Reading, Writing—

Effective speaking, reading, and writing are taught by the English Department. New books brought a new approach to old grammar, and literature took on a new look through thematic methods.

English is a required subject throughout high school, but many electives are offered. These included drama, public speaking, creative writing, and journalism. Drama taught the student through actual play productions. Public speaking utilized reading and writing skills to aid in oral communication. Creative writing gave students a chance to learn writing techniques and put them to use. Journalism put the school newspaper together. All this culminated in effective speaking, reading, and writing skills for the student.

Elaine Watson, Cheryl Adams, and Phyllis Penn dramatize the "Trials at Salem."

Rehearsals, Make-up, Scenery . . . "Blithe Spirit"

Field trips to Richmond to see Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew" and to Washington, D.C. were only part of the scene for the dramatics club. The creativity of the members showed through their intense involvement on stage acting and behind the scenes directing and doing makeup, scenery, and publicity.

Actual productions captivated the audiences in the Little Theater. Under the direction of Mrs. Claudia Hawks, "The Necklace," a one-act play, was presented. Miss Kay Burcher assisted in producing two other one-act plays, "Monaca" and "A Message from Cougar." Long hours of rehearsal and hard work resulted in the successful full length production of Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit" on May 10th and 11th.

'Mustang Highlights' Worth the Wait

Production of "Mustang Highlights," the school newspaper, was slowed down due to a shortage of typists and no full-time photographer. Another set-back was the fact that none of the students on the staff had any experience in journalism. Nevertheless, with the aid of Mr. Leroy Williams, volunteer typists, and a hope and a prayer, Christmas, Valentine, Spring, and Graduation editions of the newspaper went out to the faculty and student body. Of course, credit must be given to Mr. Thomas Smithwick and the communication classes for the final printing of the paper.

Sylvia Capehart is hard at work on the faculty section.

Hard work and persistent effort were the main assets of the "Mustang" staff. Staff members met three afternoons a week and during any I.S. time. Due to a lack of a private meeting room, staff members could be seen pushing their equipment cart around the halls at just about any time of day.

The first things sold were advertisements, then yearbooks. Yearbooks were sold prior to Christmas, and sales were reopened in February. Now it was time to get down to work. Deadlines filled the air with phrases like "Who's got the cropper" and "That's no way to lay this page out." In the end, everyone got to use the cropper, pictures fitted in layouts, and the yearbook was on its way to being finished.

To keep up with the latest ideas for yearbooks, several staff members attended the October 20-21 and March 30-31 conferences of the Virginia High School League (VHSL). They brought back notebooks full of ideas that could be used in the 1974 "Mustang."

The honor of pushing the equipment cart goes to Sharon Hairfield.

An eager student body waits patiently as Mrs. Janie Epperson, Mary Fritts, and Luke Farrell hand out the 1973 "Mustang."

Through development of communication skills in a second language, the foreign language department contributes to the educational, social, and cultural growth of the student. The historical, political, and cultural heritage of the country is stressed, giving the student a fuller understanding of the target language. In addition to classroom instruction, language clubs and observance of Foreign Language Week offered students a chance to express their language creativity.

Society, the Past,

Shortages of students in International Relations, and shortages elsewhere was a challenge to the Social Studies Department. It is their job to meet state requirements and provide other electives to students.

Various countries and their cultures were investigated by students in World Geography, World History, and Black Studies.

United States History, at the junior level, guided students from Columbus' exploration to the current oil shortage. AMERICAN POLITICAL BEHAVIOR helped students study United States government and at the same time develop a personal political philosophy.

Students in Sociology discussed discrimination, crime, and the population explosion. Then there were the ten students who weathered International Relations. They pondered over diplomacy, sovereignty, and the shortage in their class.

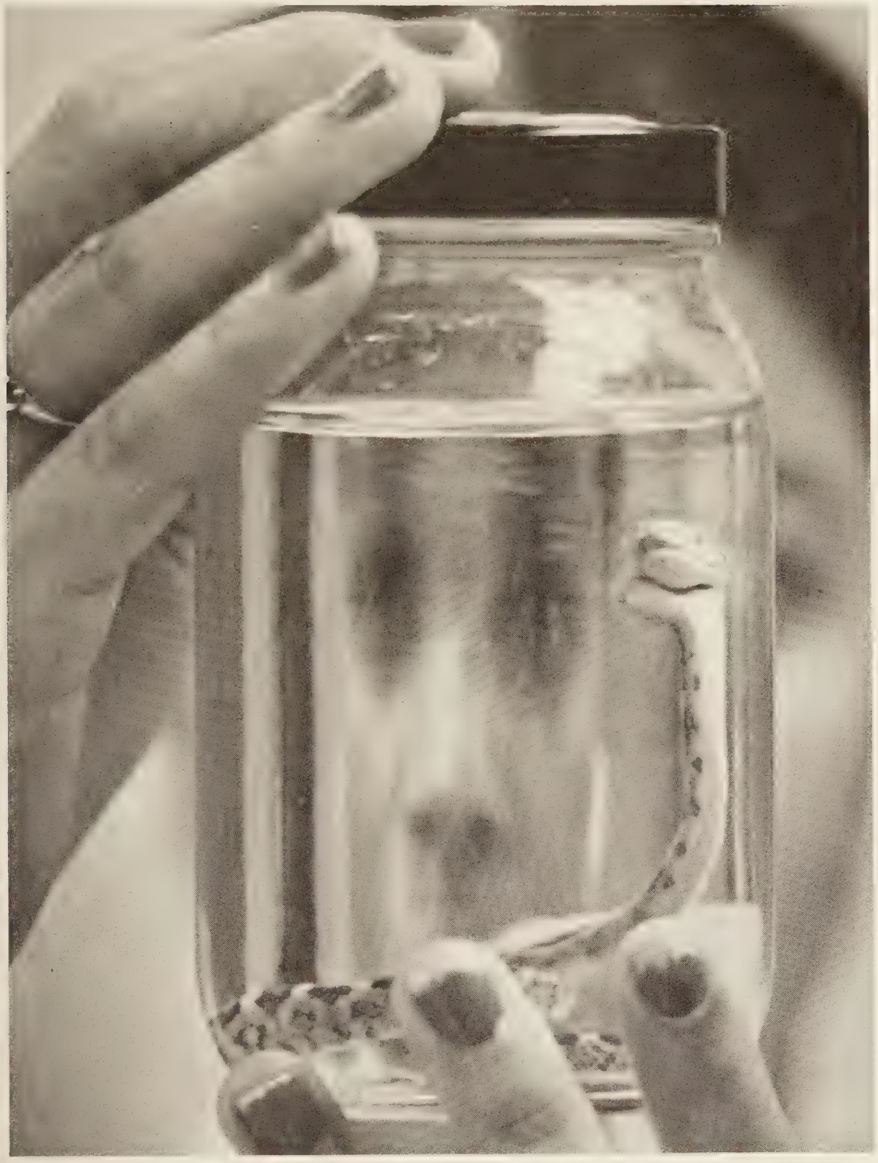
Principles, Patterns . . .



The marvels of biology can be seen through a glass jar.

Biology, chemistry, physical science, and physics make up the curriculum of the Science Department. Students of biology studied a great variety of patterns operating in living organisms, both microscopic and macroscopic — hey, watch that language! In chemistry, students used the analytical approach to obtain a knowledge of the nature and properties of matter — oh those equations and calculations! Physical science students study the basic principles of chemistry and physics—hmmm, what is matter and energy? And physics students labored courageously with the theories and principles governing the interaction of matter and energy.

Oh, yes, in January, we organized Manor's first Science Club. This organization was established in order to enhance student performance and interest in the formal science curriculum, to provide a more realistic kind of career guidance, and to motivate students through doing. Got a good scientific idea? Come on in and share it with a great group!

Mathematics Requires

Elementary mathematical analysis was the highest course available. It provided the students with a firm foundation for calculus through the topics of limit and continuity. Advanced algebra and trigonometry was an integrated approach to such concepts as interpretation of verbal problems, logic, and relations and functions. The geometry curriculum combined the concepts of plane and solid Euclidean geometry, in addition to some aspects of the non-Euclidean geometry. Algebra II was concerned with solving equations, graphing, and exploring the real number systems, while Algebra I laid the groundwork for study of elementary algebra. Practical math and consumer math stressed the application of basic math skills acquired in areas such as personal finance and various vocations. General Math 9 provided an opportunity for reviewing the basic skills in whole numbers, fractions, and decimals.

Games, Tests, Sewing, . . .

Meetings sometimes found members involved in such games as "Twixt," "Breakthrough," "Feudal," and "Cubic." Of course, the games did take a bit of brain power, and members found that they needed a rest once in a while. Thus, they took up geometric stitchery and proceeded to plan and build a display in the Math showcase. Parties seemed to fit the season, so the Math Club held a Christmas party and invited the math and science teachers. Shortly after the beginning of the second semester, the Math Club merged with the Science Club. With the merger came a clairvoyance test. Dice, playing cards, and money — all part of the test — replaced previous games.

Various courses were offered for those inclined toward an industrial career. These included communications for future photographers and electricians, construction for carpentry skills, manufacturing for manufacturing know-how, power and transportation for budding mechanics and engine technicians, and last but not least, mechanical drawing for people aspiring to be architects and draftsmen. These courses gave the students insights into various industrial careers. Not only were the classes instructional, but also the students did constructive projects applying what they learned. For instance, the Communications classes printed three editions of the school paper as well as programs for school and club functions at Manor.

Business Courses Prepare

For students interested in pursuing a business career, courses in General Business, Typewriting I and II, Shorthand I and II, Recordkeeping, Clerical Training, and Business Law were offered. Many students who planned to attend college also involved themselves in the Business Education program preparing for the typing chores associated with college courses. Business Law and Bookkeeping were popular with the male students.

In the Cooperative Office Education (C.O.E.) program, students attended class half of the day and then worked in an office. This gave the students valuable on-the-job work experience.

Membership in the Future Business Leaders of America (F.B.L.A.) was open to any students enrolled in a business course. Each member helped the club earn money, participated in contests, attended district and state conferences, helped charitable organizations, and attended social functions.

The club's program of work included an area Fall Conference held at Lake Taylor High School, a fund-raising project, and a Christmas party for the members. In addition, the club was host for the District D.E.C.A. Leadership Conference, and in May, the students hosted a banquet for their employers at the Hotel Governor Dinwiddie. "Six Rooms Riv Vu" Seen at Independent, directly related studies about respective career goals filled class time for students in I.C.T. On-the-job training found students working as dental technicians, mechanics, nurse's aides, library aides, electricians, and even as fish breeders.

Students are employed under school jurisdiction. Some students do their own job-hunting, with the coordinator assisting in finding job leads. The biggest difference between the I.C.T. work program and other work programs is that students have already chosen a career and are working toward it.

V.I.C.A. (Vocational Clubs of America) activities complement class studies. In order to raise money, the club sponsored a candy sale and a candle sale. On April 9, an Employer-Employee Banquet was held at the Cavalier Dinner Playhouse. A buffet dinner was served, and "Six Rooms River Vu" was seen. to Home Economics Department

Well equipped food and clothing labs provided opportunities for students to do more than just "cook and sew" in the Home Economics classes.

The child development area of the Home Economics Department has provided many wonderful activities to learn about the care of children. The observation of preschool children's eating habits and playtime activities was an experience anyone would enjoy.

An opportunity to listen to and observe consultants in the areas of family living and marriage, home nursing care, and home decorating also helped to make the Home Economics program unique.

The addition of a larger number of male students in the Home Economics classes really created a stir. Their presence seemed to have created more enthusiasm for others who otherwise might not have considered taking economics.

Helping individuals to improve their personal, family, and community living now and in the future is the goal of the Future Homemakers of America. The FHA members worked to prepare themselves for future responsibilities as adult citizens and at the same time did a great public service for the community. Art Develops Creative Skills

A variety of art courses allowed students to express their creative abilities. In Art I, students developed their skill in drawing, painting, graphics, and sculpture. Students who showed artistic talent and interest furthered their studies in Art II, III, and IV where career possibilities were brought out.

To promote art throughout the staff and to encourage every person to create and express himself was the purpose of the Art Club.

Art Club members served as guides at the city staff meeting and helped to entertain guests, art supervisors, and representatives from Woman's Club and the City Recreation Department. They also served as guides at the orientation program for the incoming students from Waters Junior High School.

Lancaster Sing-a-long

At the opening of school, choral students began practicing for the Lancaster Sing-a-long which was held two weeks later at T.A. Willet Auditorium with Wilson, Churchland, Cradock, and Manor High Schools participating.

Then it was time to start on Christmas music. As December 16th drew near, tension mounted for jokes and misbehavior were not tolerated. The Chorus also traveled to Williamsburg, and the Manor Singers performed in the Lion's Club Annual Christmas Show.

In January, 50 students tried out for Regional and Workshop Chorus, and 43 got the honor of participating on the weekend of February 8-9. There, tryouts for All-State Chorus were held. Four students from Manor were selected. They were Freida King, Sharon Williams, Bruce Cole, and Vickie Johnson.

March and springtime rolled around, and "The Creation" was given. It is the first chapter of Genesis done in Rock Cantata style.

Mixed Chorus and Girls' Ensemble participated in the All-City Chorus.

After Easter, tension again mounted as the Spring Concert drew near. Everyone rushed around and worked hard, as this was the goal for which they had worked.

Excellence Through

Truly the "Band of Champions" lived up to its motto of "Excellence Through Character and Musicianship." The Marching Mustangs participated in the Tobacco Festival Parade in Richmond and won second place in the Tidewater Festival of Bands. The concert band received a superior rating of 1 in the District Festival.

The highlight of the year was the purchase of new uniforms. The band boosters and the faculty and students of Manor combined to raise funds for the uniforms. After the band received their uniforms, they participated in the first annual Manor Spirit Day Celebration.

Parades, Dances, . . .

Studying naval history, naval sciences, seamanship, and the organization of the Navy fascinated the minds of students in N.J.R.O.T.C. (Naval Junior Reserve Officer's Training Corps). Classroom work was not the only thing involved in R.O.T.C. though.

The company was divided into two platoons. Each platoon drilled an hour and a half each week. There were field trips — single day and overnight excursions — to ships and naval units. The ranks were infiltrated by five girls — another strike for Women's Lib.

Students in the N.J. R.O.T.C. participated in parades in the local area. They marched in the Annual Christmas Parade and in the Memorial Day Parade on May 27th.

The social highlight on the calendar occurred on April 20th at Western Branch High School. R.O.T.C. students from Manor, Churchland, Oscar Smith, Deep Creek, Indian River, Great Bridge, and Western Branch High Schools attended the Military Ball.

Twirling Fire Adds Attraction

Auditions were over, and summer practice started for the new majorettes. As school and the marching season began, the majorettes met every day after school to create and perfect their spectacular half time shows. The head majorettes even added an extra attraction to one half time show by twirling fire. When the band performed, you could always find the high stepping majorettes leading the way. Of course the majorettes were on hand to share in the excitement when the long awaited moment came with the arrival of the band uniforms.

Orchestra Receives Superior

Under the direction of Mr. Willis Barnett, Jr., the orchestra achieved its primary air of perfection in musical performances. Cooperation with other groups was exemplified by performing with the Bute Street Baptist Church Choir, the Norcom Orchestra, and a selected number of players in the Manor Band. The orchestra and the band comprised one of the few symphonic orchestras in this area. There were fourteen concerts at schools, churches, P.T.A. meetings, the dinner for the Japanese Educators, and District Festival and the Solo and Ensemble Festival. A superior rating was received at the District Festival. The Spring Concert took on a new look with Jotto von Del singing, and the program consisting entirely of popular tunes by such groups as the Stylistics and Love Train.

Frustration comes to Brenda Gallop as she works on a piece of music.

Assistance from Mr. Barnett helps Sharon Hunter, Valerie Boone, and Linda King through a difficult composition.

Exercise . . . Groan

Push-ups, basketball, volleyball, tennis, exercise (groan) and more constituted the physical education program. Also, there were health, gym and driver's education, which taught safe driving methods to the students who were old enough to apply for their license. All this hard work paid off. It made the students healthier and physically fit. The health classes learned self-awareness, and tenth graders studied first aid. For those who excelled in gym class, there were intramurals and varsity sports.

Sophomores Now Eligible for N.H.S.

In order to set a precedent for future chapters of the National Honor Society to be more than prestige groups, the society sponsored two money-making projects. The first project, a Book Fair, ran from February 25, till March 1. It was not as successful as hoped, but the second project more than made up for the first. A film festival was held on March 8, featuring "The Salem Witch Trials" with students from English classes in attendance. On May 20 the induction ceremony welcomed new members—qualifying seniors, juniors, and for the first time, sophomores—into the society.

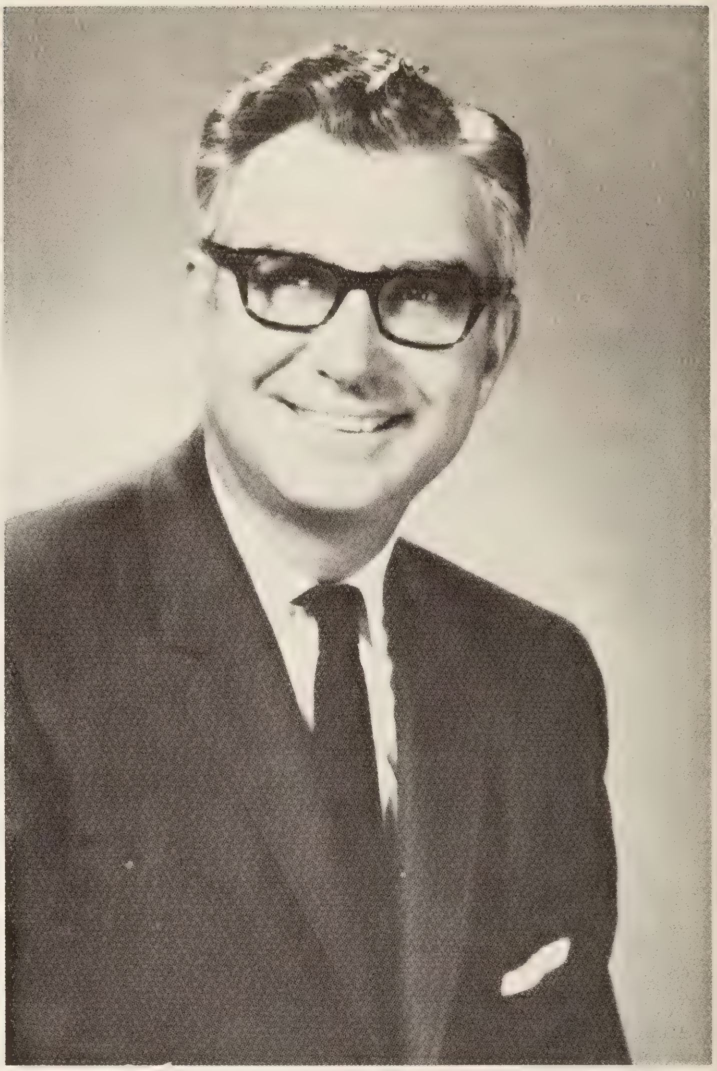
THE WAY

WE WERE

THE WAY WE WERE was unique. Mustangs used creativity, originality, and good ole' common sense in setting traditions to be passed on to future students. Of course, every tradition introduced could not have been entirely original. Perhaps Mustangs were not the first to have the prom somewhere other than in the gym. Perhaps Mustangs were not the first to elect a couple to represent the school instead of a Homecoming Queen.

However, one tradition that has made Manor quite different from other high schools was class separation. Generally, Mustangs were students — not seniors, junior, sophomores, and freshmen. Lack of several senior privileges accounted for much of the disinterest in distinguishing between the classes. Exam exemption with an 'A' average, being able to run for Mr. or Miss Manor, and going to the assemblies first were the extent of Senior privileges. The junior and senior classes were taken from Wilson, Cradock, or Norcom High Schools where classes are recognized and freshmen work hard to get their senior privileges. Mustangs chose not to follow that tradition. That was one way in which THE WAY WE WERE was unique.

Portsmouth Schools Are Under the Leadership Of Dr. Alford and the School Board



Dr. M. E. Alford—Superintendent of Portsmouth Public Schools

Dr. Alford

As superintendent of Portsmouth Public Schools, Dr. M. E. Alford has provided guidance and leadership since 1965. Having received his B.S. from Middle Tenessee State University, his M.A. from Peabody College, and his Ed. D. from the University of Virginia, Dr. Alford holds an important position as head of the Portsmouth School System.

School Board

On the second Thursday of each month, the Portsmouth City School Board meets. It is composed of nine members appointed by the City Council. Their primary function is to formulate policies and rules necessary to meet the needs of the schools and students in the system.

Manor's Second Year Begins with a New Principal, Dr. Thomas M. Cherry

Manor opened its doors for the second year under the leadership of a new principal, Dr. Thomas M. Cherry. Dr. Cherry received his B.S. from East Carolina University, his M.A. from William and Mary, and his Ed.D. from the University of Virginia. He has had experience as principal of Port Norfolk Elementary School, Academy Park Elementary School, and Harry Hunt Jr. High School.

Dr. Cherry considers his appointment to Manor a challenge, and we are pleased to have his guidance in establishing traditions for the future.

Dr. Cherry confers with Paul Winston, Karen Wilson, and Sheila Preuitt.

Faculty Is

Within a faculty of 106 members, 36 were new to modular scheduling! The first adjectives that come to mind when thinking of our faculty are young and helpful. Having a young-minded faculty is a definite advantage for such a system as modular scheduling. Teaching under a free system such as modular scheduling can be quite a strain on a teacher who is set on the traditional six-period day.

The word helpful did not fully describe the extra time and work that the faculty volunteered. Such activities as the Student-Faculty Basketball Game, which aided the Junior Class in raising money for the prom, and the Faculty Show, which was performed for the benefit of the Humanities Trip, were added to the sponsoring of clubs and daily teaching plans that were only a few examples of what kept the faculty young and helpful.

Desiring a change from the traditional Senior activities, the Class of '74 concentrated its efforts on fund raising projects to finance a trip to Atlanta, Georgia. These activities consisted of dances with Sir Robert and Calvin "Shakespeare" Perkins. Later, the class sponsored a "Band Showcase" featuring Third World, Mad Wax, Drew Fox, and Shadowfax. Bake sales were held and Manor T-shirts were sold to boost school morale.

The money was raised, and members of the Senior class went to Atlanta. The trip proved to be not only educational but also enjoyable. They toured the city of Atlanta and visited Stone Mountain. The last day was a fun day at Six Flags with its rides, games, and various entertainment centers.

Seniors kept their spirit even after returning home. All attention was then focused on Senior Week. Included in this week were the Senior assembly followed by the Senior picnic, student-teaching day, and the Senior dance. Joint efforts and the determination to be successful have proved the Senior class of 1974 to be a together one.

When school reopened in September 1973, the Junior class looked ahead toward the promise of a new year.

SCAT-STEP tests, which are mandatory for all Juniors, were first on the Juniors' schedule of events.

Pamela Edwards was elected as the Junior attendant to Miss Manor for the Manor Bowl against Armstrong High School. Juniors, making tissue paper flowers and banners for the float, saw their reward at the half time parade of floats.

Junior homeroom 403 challenged all other homerooms in Manor to contribute to a fund raising drive for band uniforms. The drive raised over $600.

The excitement of the arrival of class rings added to Manor's holiday spirit.

The Junior-Senior prom expenses were partially funded by the Student-Faculty basketball game held on February 28, 1974, among other activities.

As the year came to an end, the class looked forward to a restful summer and also to the year of their graduation.

Juniors are seen flashing their rings in all parts of the school.

Driver's Education Program

Sharon Childs pauses while Coach Earl Sweet gives instruction.

During the sophomore year, students participated in the Driver's Education program. This course is required by law in order to receive a driver's license at 16 years of age. It is given in two parts, written and the actual driving of a car. The written part is taken during the health class for one semester, and the driving part is taken during P.E. class for one six weeks. The purpose of this course is to help the students realize the necessity for safety when driving a vehicle.

Exams Frustrate Freshmen

Students in the class of '77 were meeting many new and different challenges their first year in senior high school. The first of many was the modular scheduling to which it took a while to adjust. In addition to progress in their regular curriculum, students broadened their minds through such extra curricular activities as chorus and French, science, math, and Bible clubs.

Dona Farley, Freshman attendant, uses every spare minute to study for her English exam.

SIGNS

SIGNS are for advertising. Advertising pays for the television shows we watch, the radio programs we hear, and the newspapers we read.

Local businesses advertised in 'The 1974 Mustang' to help defray the cost of the book. Each member of the staff started early in the fall selling ads to small enterprises, private businesses, and national businesses. The grand opening of Tower Mall came at the perfect time as the location of the mall was quite advantageous when all Portsmouth schools were competing for ads. Businesses seem to be biased towards the school nearest their own location.

The staff would like to take this opportunity to thank the management of Tower Mall and all other businesses which gave us support by placing a full page, a half-page, a quarter-page, an eighth-page, or a patron ad in 'The 1974 Mustang.'

The purpose of the McIntosh Studio is to bring beauty and happiness through the glorious art of photography.

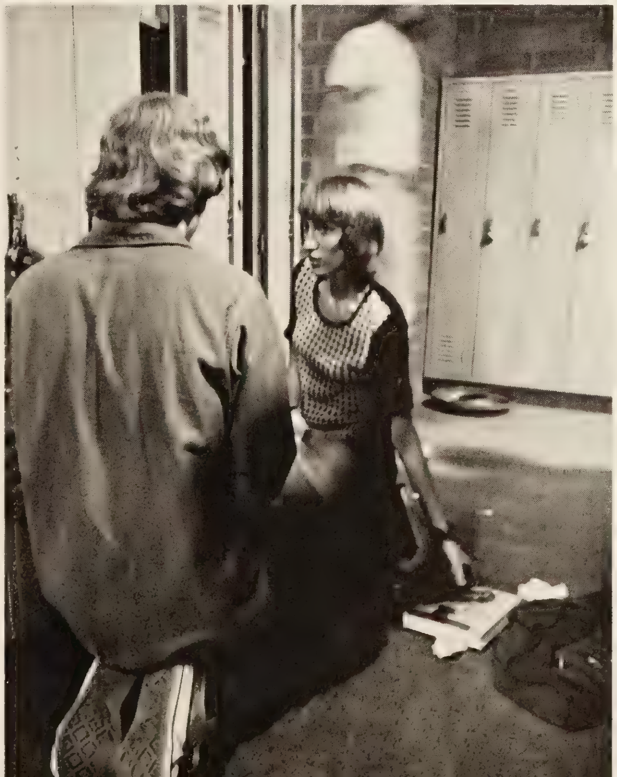
The beat goes on for the Marching Mustangs one more time.

School comes to an end, and Tammy Monahan finds that she needs assistance from Mike Butler in cleaning out her locker.



Graduation is here and so are the diplomas.

Mickey Moss takes a few moments at the end of the day to sort out his thoughts.

Mustangs had a definite advantage over all other students in the Tidewater area. There were no set traditions to follow. Mustangs had the privilege of setting new traditions. Mustangs held the history of Manor in hand—to mold and shape for the future. One of the unique traditions introduced was the Manor Bowl which coincided with the homecoming games of neighboring schools. Another innovation was the decision to have the Junior-Senior Prom on the square instead of having it in the gym.

Music that was used in this book played an important part in the life of the average Mustang. Music lovers of all types suffered the loss of two greats. Jim Croce, on September 20, 1973, and Duke Ellington, on May 24, 1974, joined 'the big band in the sky.' Croce's life ended in a plane crash just as his songs began to climb the charts to No. 1. Quite differently, Ellington's song stopped playing due to what is known as 'natural causes.' Cancer and pneumonia overcame Duke Ellington.

Mustangs made music a part of their tradition. Having an award-winning band inspired much of the enthusiasm for music while new band uniforms added to the interest. Another milestone to Mustang music was the choosing of the Alma Mater.

School ended on June 7, 1974, beginning the epidemic of vacations, summer jobs, loafing, daytime television, and for the less fortunate or more ambitious—summer school.
